

Truancy Mediation Training

Online

According to data from the National Center for Education Statistics, each day there are thousands of students who are absent from school due to unexcused reasons. The reasons behind these unexcused absences are many, but they are often left uncovered. For these students punishment often comes in the form of having to visit the judge. Truancy mediation attempts to uncover the reasons behind the unexcused absences and find a path forward.

This online training offered by the American Association of Adjunct Education is available for only $90. To register, please complete the form below.
